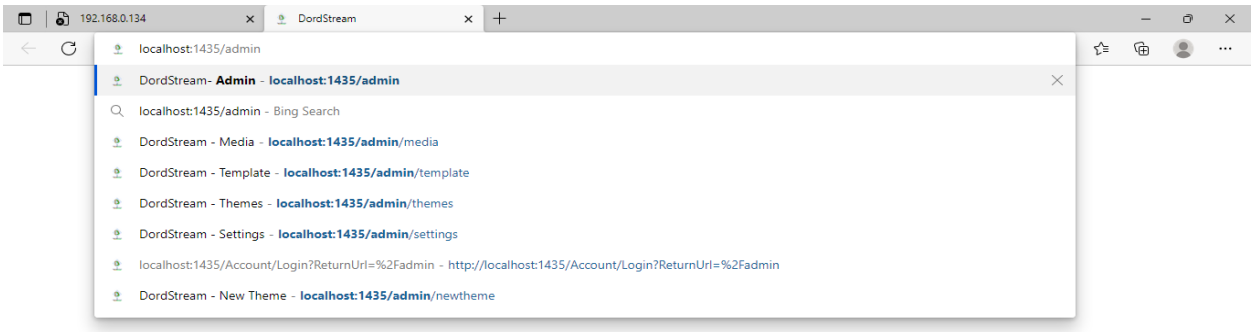
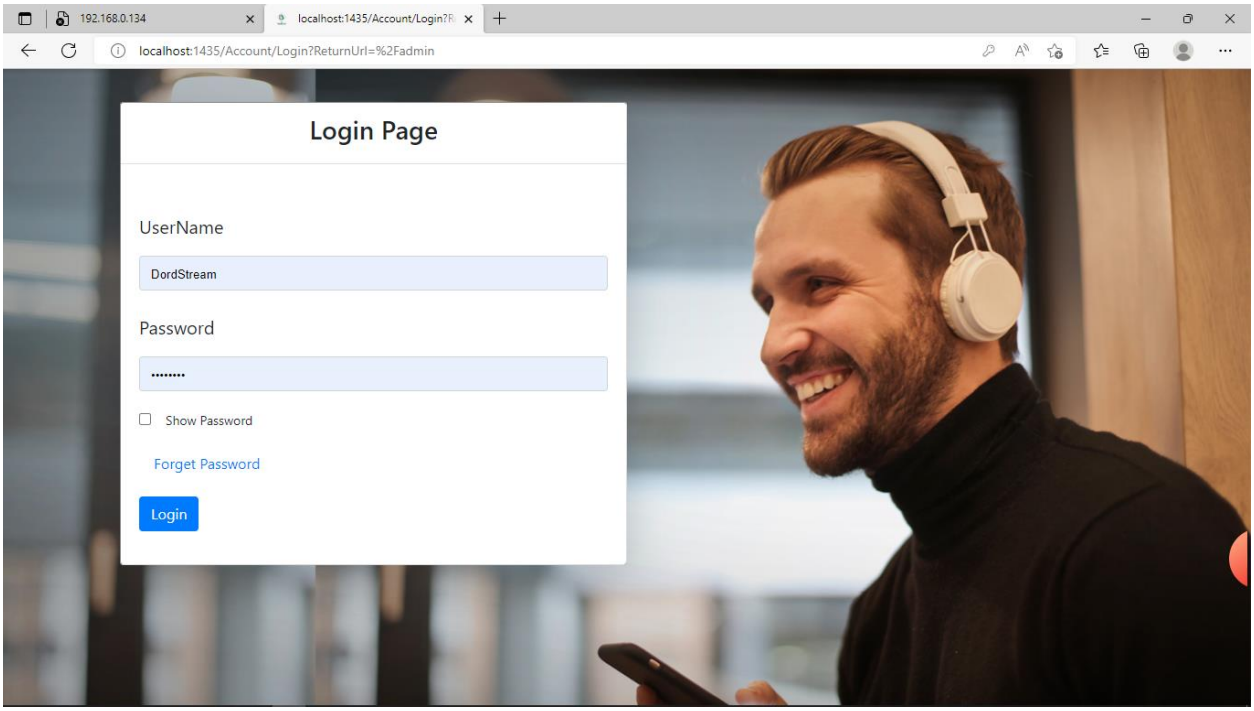
DordStream User Guide

DordStream Admin Section can be access through the domain/admin. (yourwebsite/admin)



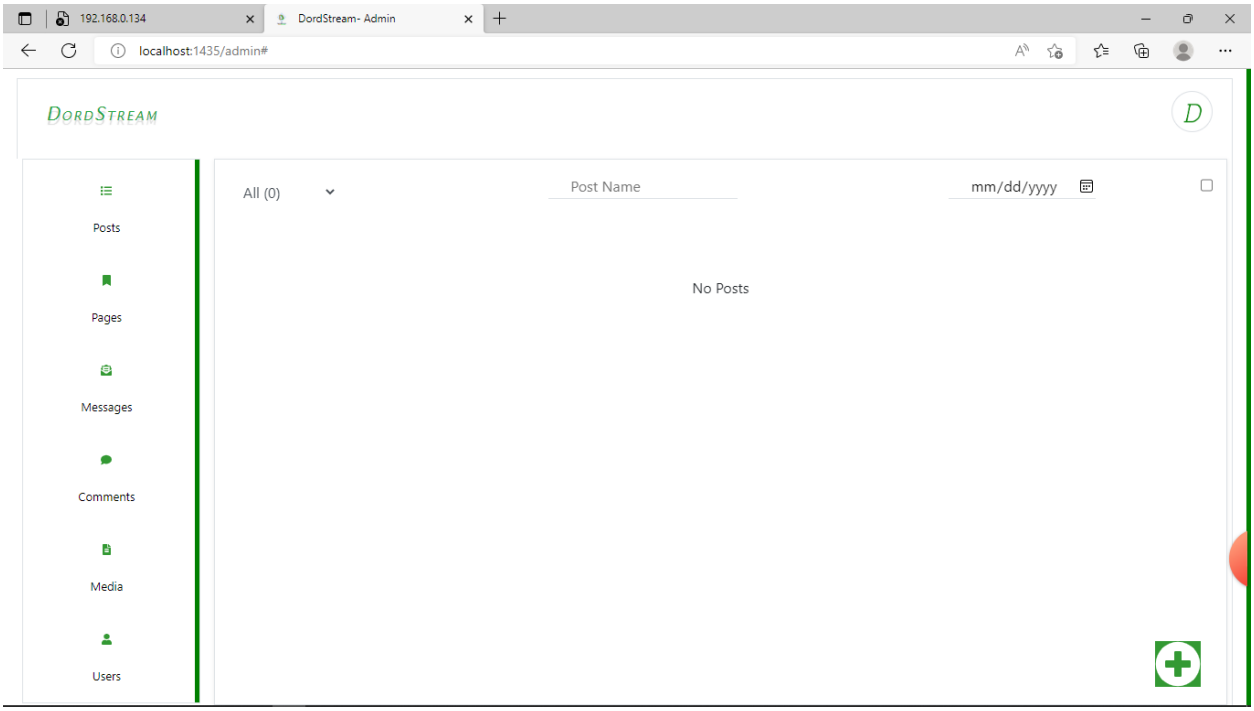
It will be redirect to the login page if the has not been authorized.

Login page is page where the credential provided will be authorized.



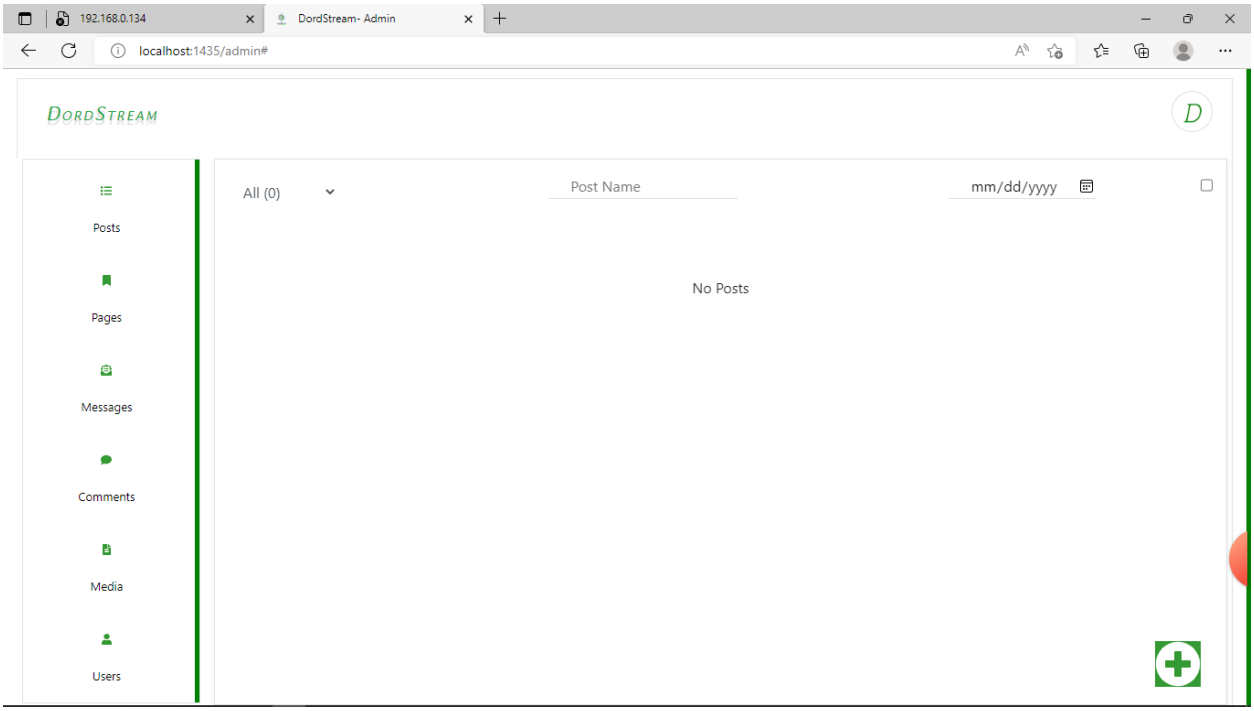
It will redirect to the admin section after the current context has successfully authorized as admin role or else redirect to the author section.

Admin section consists of Posts, Pages, Messages, Comments, Media, Users, Themes, Template, Layout, Settings and Site section while the Author section consists of Posts, Pages, Messages, Comments, Media sections.



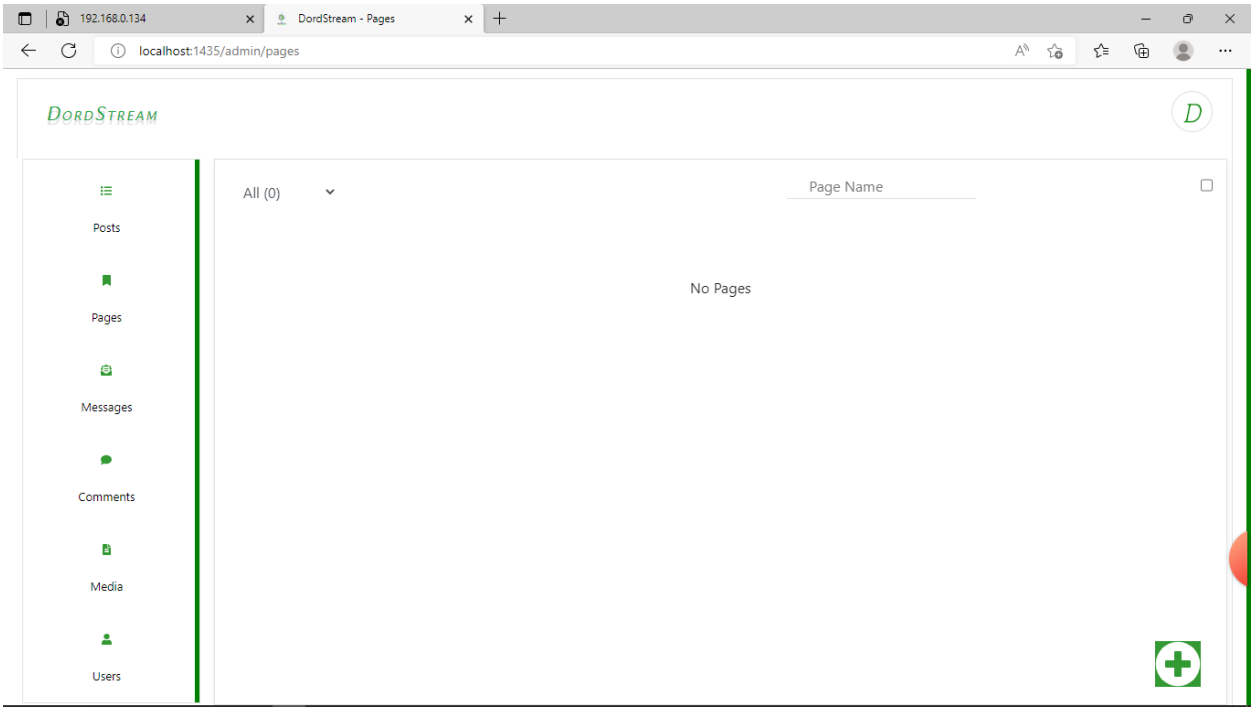
Post Section

This is the section that handle the content on the CMS, like creating of content, modifying of content and deleting of content.



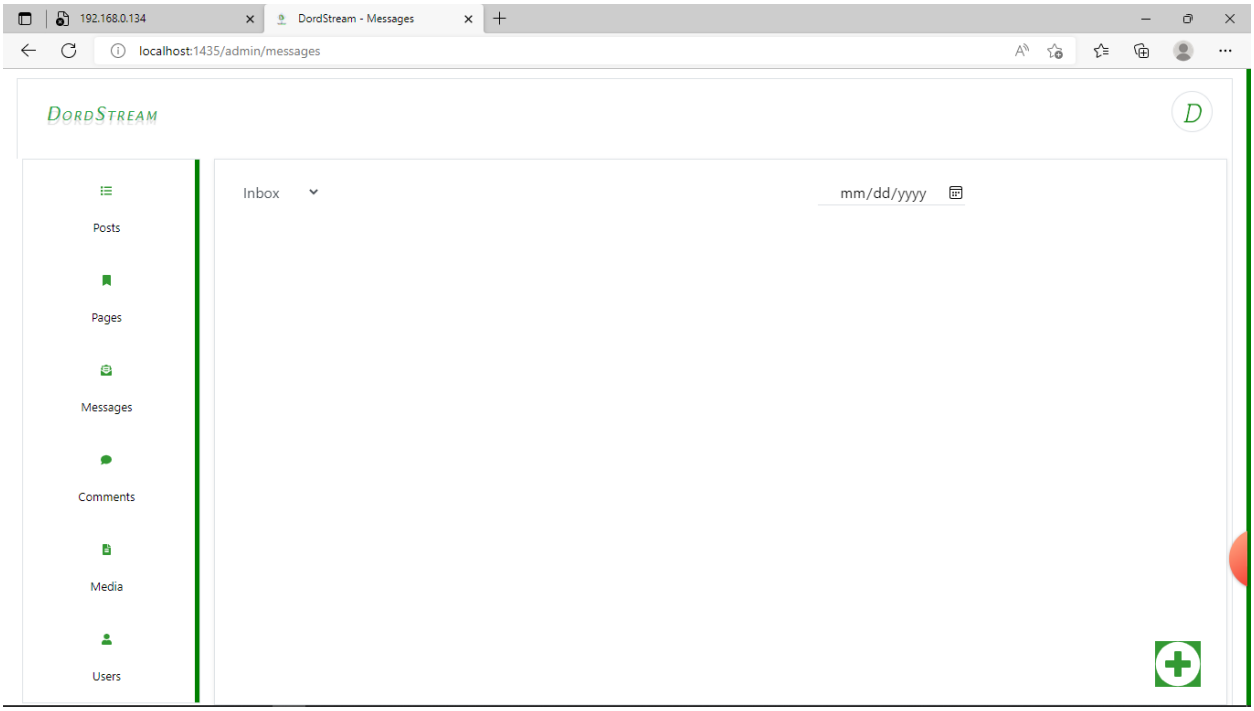
Page Section

This is the section that handle the page on the CMS, like creating of a page, modifying of page and deleting of page.



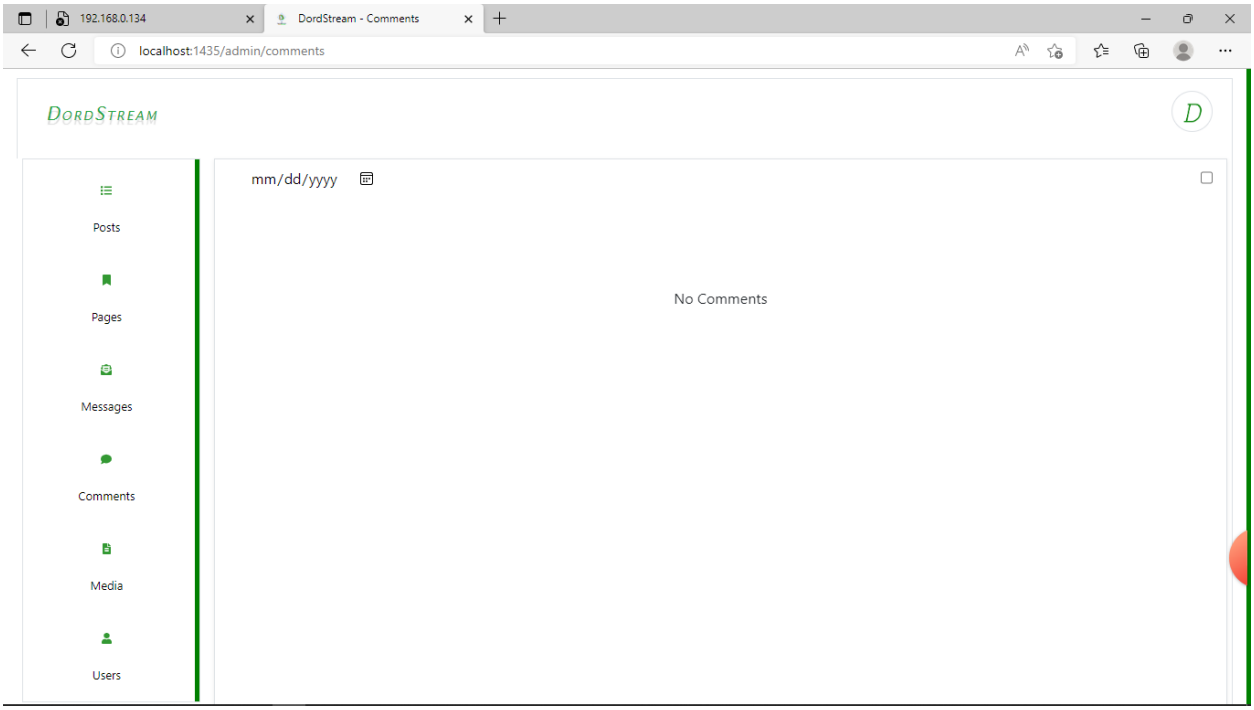
Message Section

This is the section that handle the message on the CMS, like sending of mail and receiving of mail.



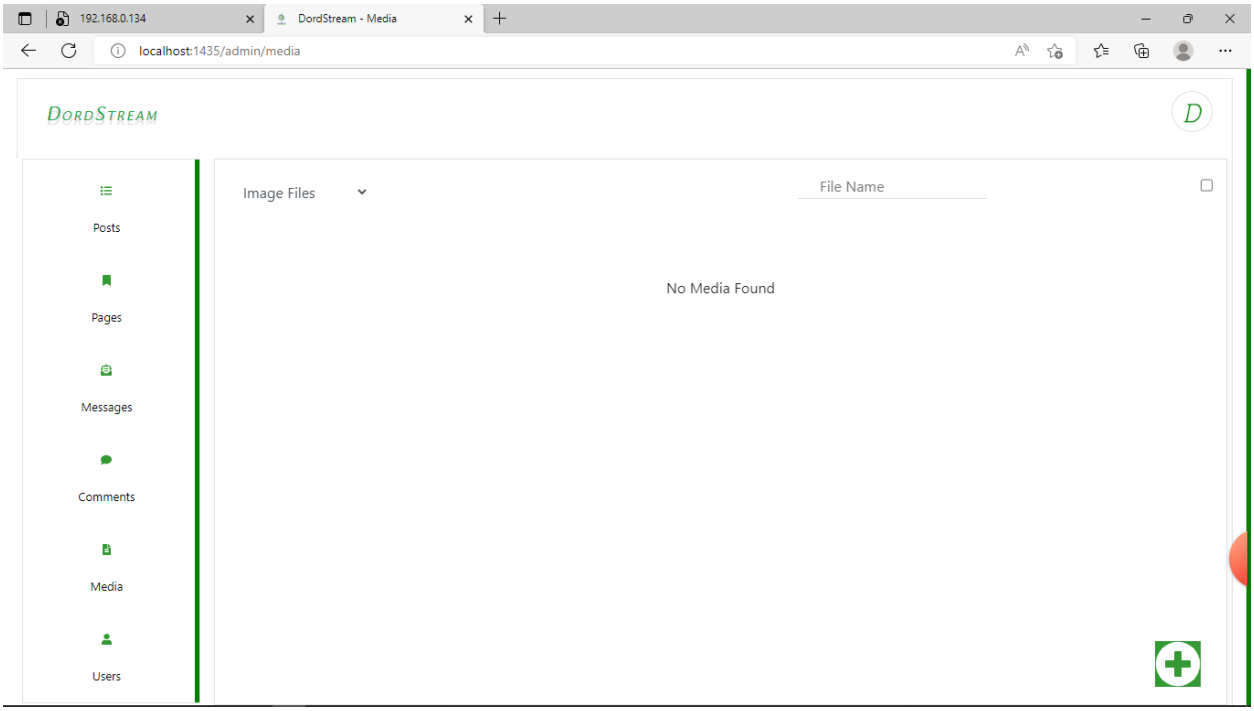
Comment Section

This is the section that handle the comment on the CMS, like viewing of comment, and deleting of comment.



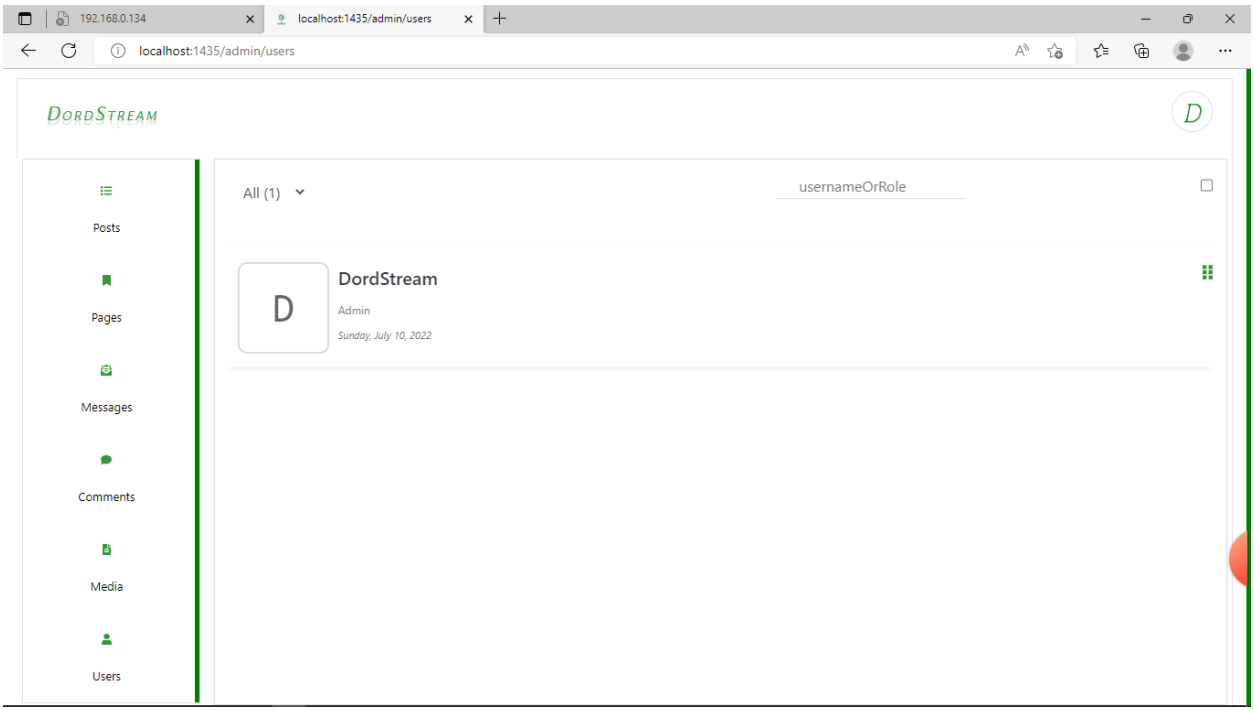
Media Section

This is the section that handle the media on the CMS, like uploading, viewing and deleting of media.



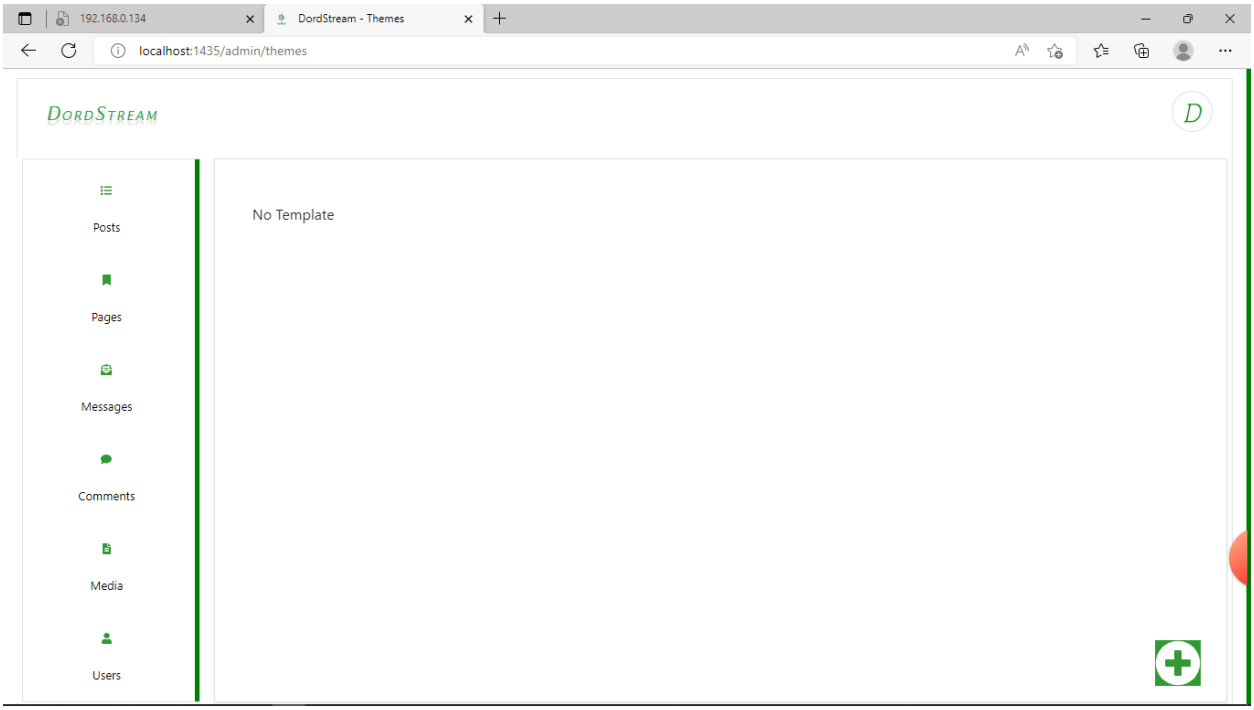
User Section

This is the section that handle the user on the CMS, like viewing and deleting of users.



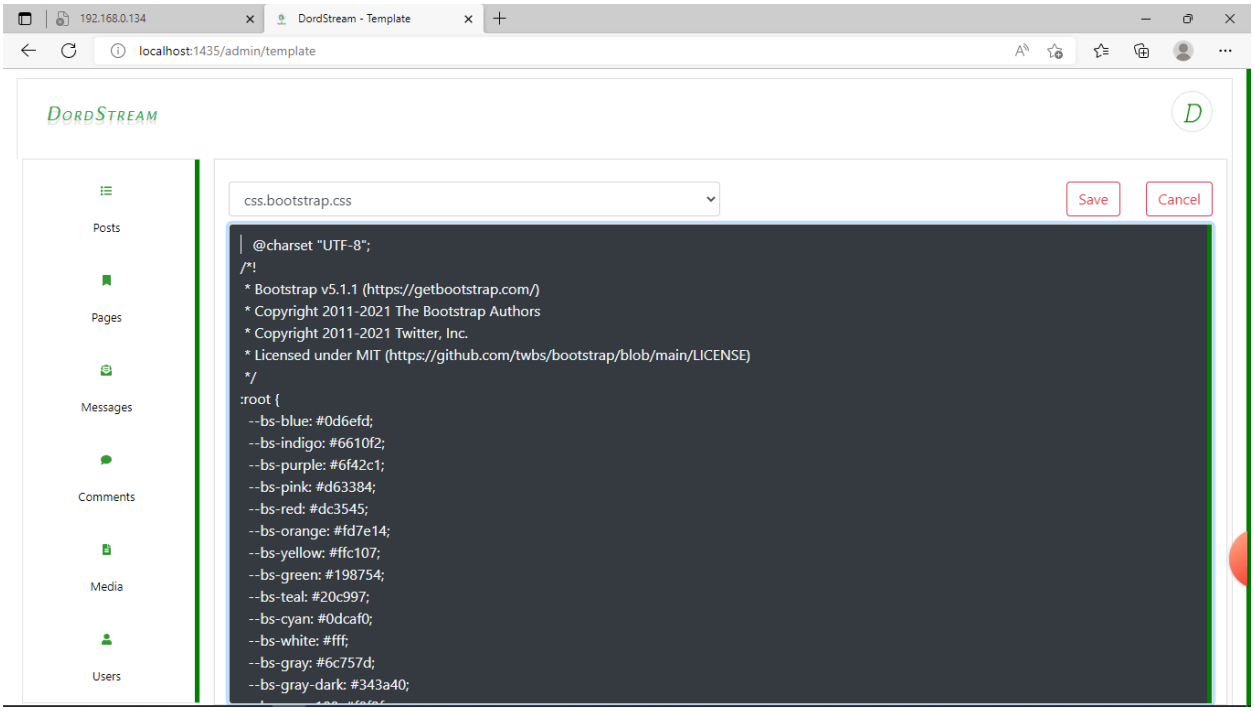
Themes Section

This is the section that handle the themes on the CMS, like viewing, applying and modifying of themes.



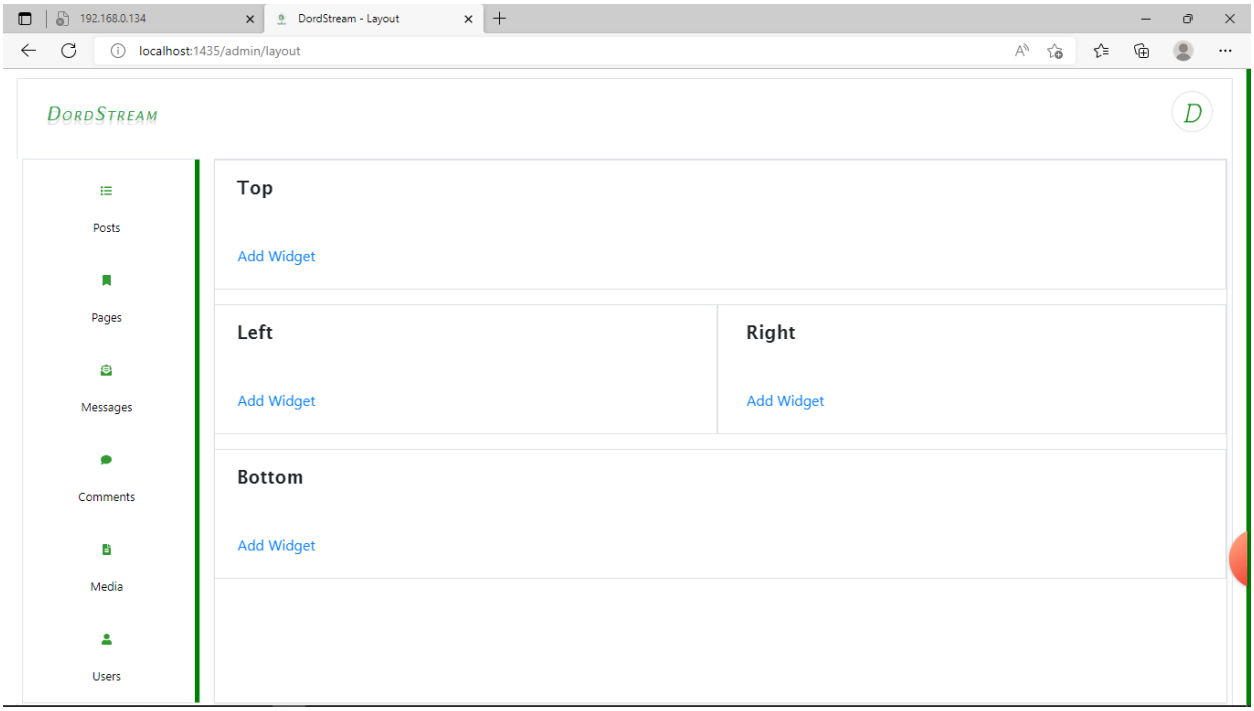
Template Section

This is the section that handle the modification of applied themes on the CMS, like modifying the Template.



Layout Section

This is the section that handle the layout of installed themes, adding of widget and deleting of widget to the website.



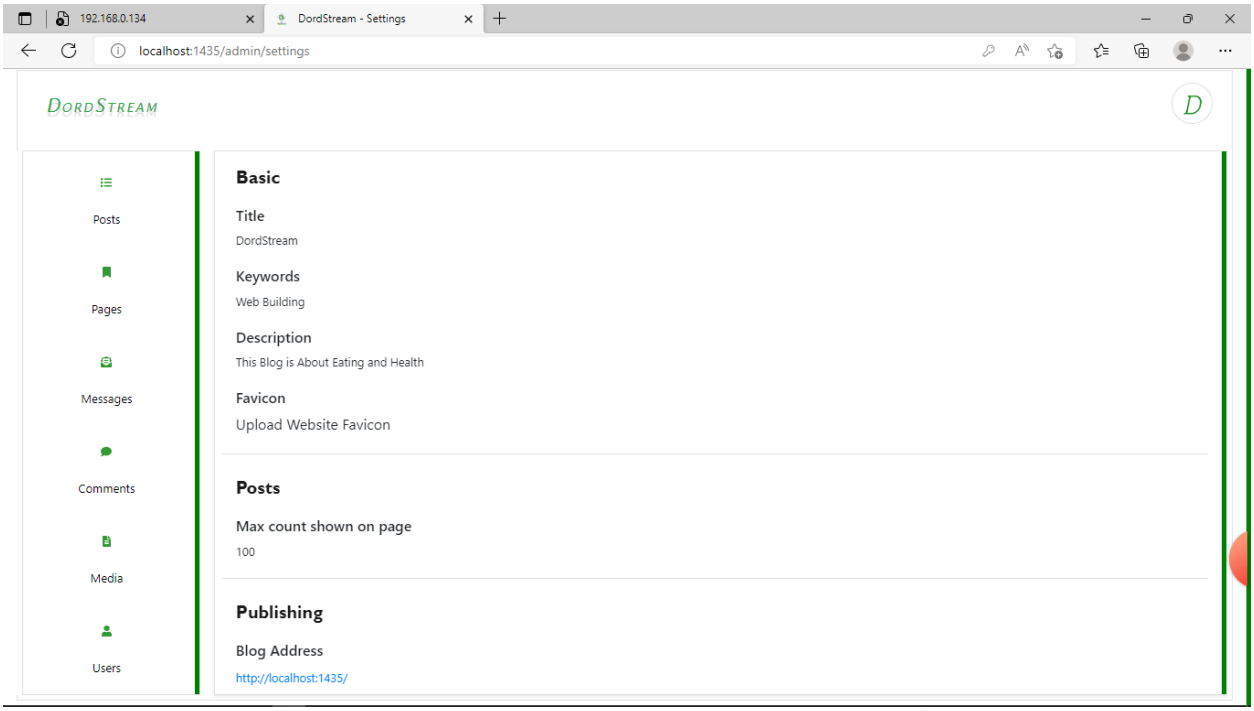
Settings Section

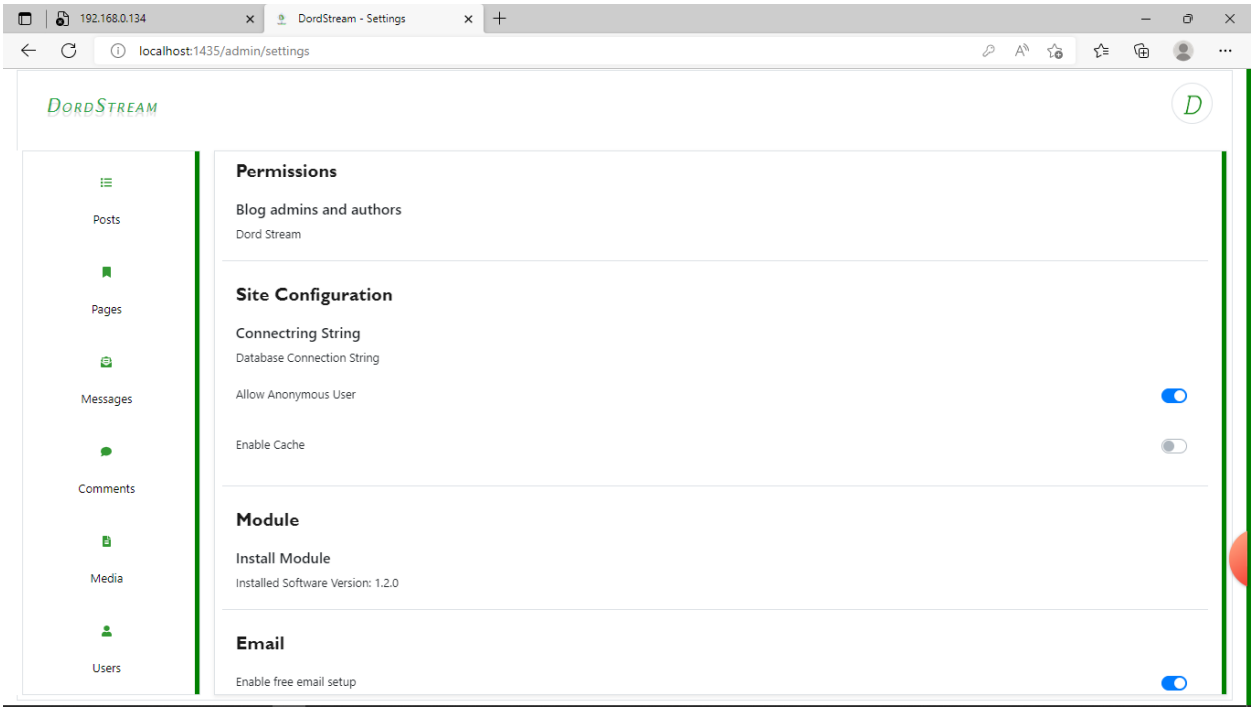
This is the controller of the CMS and a section where configuration of the site and installation of modules are being made.

This is a section where you set your website title, keyword, description, upload favicon,

Set permission to the site, add database connectionstring, email setup and installation of module.

Note: The server must be restarted after the installation of module.





Note: Plus icon represent create new.